pooped meeting, had some pretty late talk about "light," and then went to work to tell a story of a man who had made a score of thousands of dollars and was not satisfied in any of his life.

A good deal of excitement, many warm words, little sharp practice on both sides, and a good deal of religious character of the meeting provided there was any to start with, and the day was done.

Moral—Ministers ought either to preach to the sin of lying or to the sin of hypocrisy. When the ways of the world get into the pulpit, it is a bad sign, and a more of hypocrisy is shown in a hundred ways than in a thousand of lying.

Money—money—money. Every body wants money. A man who gets it and does not use it for the good of his fellow men is a man who is a failure. A man who has nothing else left in his life but money, and who uses it to buy a house and a carriage and a servant, is a man who is a failure.

EXTREME OLD AGE

TWICE WIDOWED.
Frances Holdrum, entered by the careless census enumerator as Frances Holdrum, lives at the Methodist Episcopal Home for the Aged on Forty-second street, and says that her family Bible fixes her age on March 15 last, at 90 years. She was born at St. John, N. B., and has had two husbands and six children. For nine years she has been in the Home, but has sufficient strength to take an occasional trip into the streets. She was very young and lively, fairly and has reached the dignity of having great-grand-grandchildren. Her family Bible is in the hands of her grandson, Edward Moore, a sash and blind maker in this city.

"TO STRIKE A BLOW TO CRUSH ENGLAND."
Andrew Horan, of No. 246 West Thirty-eighth street, is from county Tipperary, and fixes his age at 93 on July 15 last, but he has no record. He was 50 years old when he got married and has had no children. He remembers the execution of Father Sheehy in Ireland and the rebellion perfectly. He has been an inveterate smoker all his life, is very observant of all religious and church duties and has never been a special case. He does not recall when he came to America, but it was not many years since. His great-grandfather died at the alleged age of 101, his grandfather at 104 and his father at 100 1/2 years. He wishes he would be in Ireland and say, "I wish to strike a blow to crush England." He has been a laboring man. Upon a revision of the rentals of Ross Green, Tipperary county, Ireland, he was made out for twenty-one years in excess of three selected lives, he was chosen as one on account of the known longevity of his family.

ANNE IRVINE, OF 185 MADISON STREET, COMES FROM COUNTY TYRONE, IRELAND. SHE CANNOT FIX HER AGE EXCEPT BY THE BIRTH OF HER SON, WHO WAS BORN JUST NINE YEARS AGO. SHE HAS BEEN IN AMERICA FOR THIRTY YEARS AND HAS TWO BOYS. HER EYE-SIGHT IS EXCELLENT AND SHE HAS NEVER WORN GLASSES, THOUGH WORKING AT THE FINEST SEWING.

JACOB KILLEY, OF NO. 334 EAST FIFTH STREET, IS OF JEWISH BIRTH, COMING FROM A VILLAGE NEAR BERLIN IN GERMANY. AN OLD SEWER RECOVERED BY THE FAMILY FIXES HIS AGE AS 93 ON JULY 25, LAST. HE WAS A TAILOR BY TRADE AND FOR THIRTY YEARS PAST HAS BEEN A HOUSE PAINTER. HE HAS BEEN ENTIRELY BLIND. HE HAS BEEN REMARKABLY HEALTHY AND HAS NEVER HAD A PHYSICIAN IN ATTENDANCE UPON HIM EXCEPT FOR A STROKE ACCIDENT, BY WHICH HIS FOOT WAS RUINED. HE HAS AN EXCELLENT APPETITE AND A GOOD MEMORY. HE SAW NAPOLEON IN HIS MARCH THROUGH GERMANY, AND HE DID NOT SERVE IN THE GERMAN ARMY, BUT DID SOME ACTIVE DODGING OUT OF THE WAY OF THE IMPRESSIONS GANGS. HE HAS NOT LEARNED TO TALK ENGLISH YET. FOR MANY YEARS HE WAS A LIBERAL USER OF TOBACCO, BUT HIS OLD AGE HAS STOPPED AND HE HAS NOT CONSUMED IT SINCE.

ELLEN KING, IN THE NORTH-WEST CORNER OF THE ALMSHOUSE ON BLACKWELL STREET, WAS ADMITTED THERE ON JUNE 16, 1879. SHE THEN WAS 60 YEARS OLD. SHE IS NOW 90, AND IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO GET ANY CORRECTED SENTENCE FROM HER IN RESPONSE TO QUESTIONS. SHE IS OF IRISH BIRTH.

A PACKET SHIP EMIGRANT.
Hester Kieran, of No. 135 East Thirtieth street, was returned as aged 91 and a widow. She was found crowing over a fire in a dingy back basement. She denied with some vehemence that she was Irish born, and that she had been in America on an island, which she said was "Borgian Tweed." Her talk grew incoherent when an attempt was made to fix her memory, and she said she was then eight years of age. She has been in America between thirty and forty years, coming over in a packet. She has no record to refer to fix her age, though she insists that she is over 90 years. Toothless, wrinkled and partially blind, the old widow looks that age.

REMEMBERING MUCH AND FORGETTING LITTLE.
Mary Kieran, of No. 331 East Twenty-fifth street, celebrated March 27 last as her 97th birthday, though the census taker put down the age at 90. She fixes her age by a search made four years ago by her eldest son, who is the superannuated clerk of the church in county Sligo, where the record of her christening was in a great old book. Her mother, having had four children herself. Thirty years ago she came out to America in a packet ship. The old woman has a good tooth, and uses large quantities of salt in her food. She is of a very inquiring mind, is an omnivorous reader and forgets little that she reads or hears. She sings very loudly, if not well, and carries her years without much burden.

FULL OF INTER REMINISCENCES.
Sabina Kelly, of No. 478 Pearl street, says she is close on 100 years of age, but cannot fix the year, though she celebrates as July 15 as her birthday. She has been in the country for eighteen years, coming from the county Galway, Ireland. She has had troubles from rheumatism she is in good health. She has had five children, and is full of reminiscences of old times in Ireland, and declares that at the time of the rebellion she was able to carry a good pool of water.

"WANT OUT YOUR FINGERS."
Jane Leahy, of No. 403 West Thirtieth street, told she would be 96 years old in November next, but had only her word as proof. She was born in the county Cork, Ireland, and came out to America in 1834, having been a widow since 1833. She has been the mother of eight children and is now a great-grandmother. She was in fair health, but she was past 85, but for some years past she has been ailing, and she ascribes to "Paddy Dolan's" benefit in the picnic grounds beyond, where I danced the old Irish jig for them all night, and wore out four ladies, so she said. This indication at the age of 85 she now thinks will out of her years.

GOD HAS FORGOTTEN ME.
Peter A. Le Conte, of No. 127 Seventh avenue, was born at Yonkers, in France, and on August 29 next will be 93 years old. This he fixes by family records. He is an old man of remarkable vitality. He has had three wives and has thirteen been widowed. His oldest son is 60 years old, while his youngest is under 30. Old Pierre was a soldier under Napoleon through the wars of the revolution, and was a leader. He came to this country fifty-two years ago as a dealer in passementerie. He has crossed the ocean about twenty times since, on trips connected with his business. He retains his love for France and has never learned to feel at home in America. He is an enthusiastic amateur gardener, and fruit grower, and up to a few years ago spent all his leisure time among his favorite plants. He is a generous liver, drinks a bottle of wine at dinner each day and smokes a pipe of tobacco each day, and in his infirmities, his grandfather lived to be over 100 years of age, and old Mr. Le Conte says he cannot see why he should not live five or six years or more yet. His frequent expression is, "God has forgotten me, and is averse to talking about his age, lest the omission might be corrected by publicity."

MARRIED IN THE YEAR OF WATERLOO.
Margaret Leonard, of No. 436 East Sixteenth street, is an old widow from county Armagh, Ireland. She was a heavy old woman, and when asked her age she said she was "within five years of eighty." She recalled that she had been married in the month of August, 1815, and that she had been married to her mother on her wedding day, the bride mistaking that she was 23, while the mother declared that she was 24 years old. Mr. Leonard had been married once and had nine children. Of these fifteen had been christened. Her husband has been twenty-four years, and in twenty years past she has been in this country. The uprising of '98 in Ireland she recalls by the burning of her house, and the fact that she was carried away on her father's horse.

WIDOW WITH NINE CHILDREN.
Margaret Lonnigan, of No. 216 Monroe street, comes from county Limerick, Ireland, and has been twenty-six years in this country, and twenty-five years a widow with nine children. Her age, according to the census taker, was 91 years, but her daughter now estimates her to be "nearly 102," in this latter figure is an estimate based on the age of her husband when he died. She looks close on to the century, but her age belongs to the large class of the "indefinites."

FIFTY YEARS IN AMERICA.
Mary Lotz, of No. 325 West Twenty-first street, was born at Bremen, Germany, and came here fifty years or more ago. She has no direct way of telling her age, but thinks it to be above 90 years. She has had three children and has about a company of great-grandchildren, many of them well up in their teens. She has capital sight, but is very hard of hearing.

WITHOUT RECORD ON RECOLLECTION.
Alice Macdonald, of No. 409 West Twenty-second street, lives with her son. He fixes his age only by declaring that at the time of the rebellion of 1798 he was 12 years of age. He came from county Mayo in Ireland, and for thirty-seven years has been a resident of America. He has had eight children, six of them still living. He was a laboring man and recalls that several of his relatives rescued the age of 100 years or more. Some fifteen years ago his eyesight seemed to pass away and he began wearing glasses, but recently there has been a return of his eyesight and he now reads fine print without artificial aid.

A WHOLE FAMILY WITHOUT RECORD.
Mary McCarty, of No. 321 East Twenty-second street, comes from county Kerry, Ireland, and is proud of her age. She declares that August 20 next will see her reach the age of 101 years. This is disputed by her youngest daughter, who claims to be 34 years old. She thinks her mother's age is well within the century. There is no family Bible or copy of any reliable record, and the nine children of Mrs. McCarty are themselves in doubt about their own ages.

BENEFITS OF OUTDOOR WORK.
John Mangin, in the Old Gentlemen's Casertan Home, was born at Sing Sing March 14, 1792, and is now in his 90th year. He has had eight children, and has been a widower for forty years past. He has been an outdoor worker all his life, and retains his usual vigor, having a constant memory for past events. His age is a matter of Bible record. He is the senior of the Home where he lives, and holds his own well among the juniors about him.

A GREAT-GRAND-GRANDMOTHER.
Ann McCabe, of No. 215 East Twenty-second street, was born at Sing Sing, Ireland, and has had no positive record. She came from the county Monaghan, Ireland, where she was born, to this country about thirty years ago. She has had eight children, and her earliest marriage has made her almost a great-grand-grandmother.

CRIPPED YET SELF-SUPPORTING.
Bridget McCabe, of No. 215 West Twenty-seventh street, has no record in writing of her age, but says she was 91 years old on June 25 last. This conclusion she reaches by knowing that she was 50 years old when she came to this country, and that her voyage to America, by the ship Sea, took place forty-one years ago. She was born in the county Monaghan, Ireland, and has never been married. She has always supported herself and does so yet, though when 80 years of age she became disabled by breaking her leg and but recently another fall fractured her arm.

KEEPING POSTED ON THE NEWS.
Anne McCormick, of No. 450 West Twenty-fifth street, came from county Down, in Ireland, and came to this country in May, 1822. She has had two children, one of them remaining a bachelor, and as yet has had no great-grandchildren. She is in excellent health and reads the Herald, declares that she does not need glasses, and that she can read without the aid of glasses. Her family fix her age as 92 on November 25 last, and arrive at this by inquiry in Ireland and by the statements of old neighbors.

SEEKING SOLACE IN SMOKE.
Mary McCormick, of No. 433 West Thirty-third street, was found sucking comfort from a short black pipe. Her faculties were almost all gone, and she did not prove an exception to the rule of renouncing the native county, and promptly responded that she was born in county Longford, Ireland. She was married at the age of twenty, and has had two boys. She could not fix the year of her birth, but said she was about 93 years old.

LIVING ON CHARITY.
Mary McCurdy is a resident of the St. Joseph's Home, in West Fifteenth street, where she has lived for a number of years. She is Irish born, and is without record as to her age. From the age given on her entering to the Home, however, and her appearance she is put down by the Sisters in charge as 97 years of age.

"A LETHRIM LASS."
Ellen Mohan, of No. 19 West street, was found in a dingy rear tenement and carelessly indifferent about her age. She is an old maid, and she said that she was a "Lethrim lass." She was the eldest of eleven children and now lives with the youngest of the family, a married woman over 50 years of age. By some system of figuring the age Miss Mohan has been fixed at over 100, but it is a claim not based on any record. She sees and hears well, but complains of the dizziness in the head, and she speaks of going to see her in their dotage. In hiding the Herald reporter goodby she said with a kiss, called him "brother of the Irish boy," and cooly suggested a call again in 1884, which being a leap year would leave her free to speak.

"I KNOW IT BECAUSE I KNOW IT."
Mina Mindeshtines, of No. 54 Wilest street, is set down by the census takers as Mina Hitznitzer. She is a merry little old widow from Baden, and fixes her age at 91 years at Christmas next. She has been forty years in the city, twenty-five years a widow and is childless. She could not understand why the reporter should ask for a record of her age, and she said she knew because she knew it, and on that point she was not to be argued.

IN A COZY NEST THREE THIRTS.
Mary M. of No. 71 East Eighty-eighth street, was found living alone in a wee cottage at the above address. She was an active, bustling body and came from county Tipperary, Ireland. Several months ago a letter was sent to her parish church in Ireland and answer came back that she was in her 90th year, and the old lady had forgotten her birthday. She has had three children and ten grandchildren, and though several of them have offered her a comfortable home, she prefers her own style of life, with occasional visits from her great-grandchildren. She has been here thirty-five years, and has not forgotten how to bless in Irish, and poured a shower of benedictions upon the reporter. She does not seem to fix her age, though she insists that she is over 90 years. Toothless, wrinkled and partially blind, the old widow looks that age.

THE VETERAN WIDOW'S SINGING.
Patrick Mullanah, at half past eight on a stool beside his bed in the Almshouse on Blackwell's Island, and when asked his age, said, "Sorrow, I was born on March 17, 1788, sorrow." He was admitted to the Almshouse on February 26, 1876. He has been thirty-two years in America, coming from county Donegal. He has had three wives and five children, two by his first and three by his second wife. His youngest child is 58 years of age. He remembers the Rebellion, as he was sent to drive twenty-four cows to the mountains and care for them there. He was a cow boy, and he was going from fair to fair to buy stock or to dispose of it. He was for a time a steward "for a rash young Irish lord, and it was some of the duties when his master went on a spree to empty his pockets and keep the cash until his master had sobered. This contract of capital enabled him to go into the whiskey trafficking business, and he became a man with some pride that he had never lost a load of whiskey, and "its many the bothering excise man and counter I've had to deal with." About his age he will not brook any doubts, and insists that he knows his age, "because it's my own, and who else should know it?"

A BROAD MARGIN OF YEARS.
Ellen Moore, of No. 425 East Sixteenth street, was born in the county Kerry, and when asked her age she said it might be 90 years, from 75 to 85, and she said, "I don't know." She had no way of fixing her age, though the census of 1880 has recorded her as 90 years of age. She has been fourteen years in this country. She is widowed and death has made her childless.

A DOWRYAL DRIVER.
Richard Moore is an occupant of the Methodist Episcopal Home for the Aged at No. 253 West Forty-second street. He said that August 12 next would be his 93rd birthday. He was born in county Donegal and had come to this country when a boy. He had been a cartman most of his life, and it was to this open air life that he ascribed his great age. He has been twice married and left two widows. He was in excellent health, though for two years past he has been ailing and his eyesight was very poor. His claim of many years was based on his recollection of his birth, and he felt positive that he was right. He is occasionally visited at the Home by his sister, who is two years his senior and lives at No. 374 East Twenty-eighth street.

THE OLD KICKERBOCKER STOCK.
Catherine O. Morris, of No. 181 West 129th street, is one of the two New York city born housewives who celebrated their ninety-fifth birthday. She was born in that section of the city now known as the "Swamp," where her father was a leather merchant. She had seven children, and now enjoys a wide circle of grand and great-grandchildren. Mrs. Morris is of the old Kickerbocker stock, and is the very perfection of neatness, while she still carries the courteous, though somewhat stately, manner of the old school. She is a capital story teller, and with an unimpaired memory, she is at any time entertaining a circle of friends for a whole evening with her recollections of the metropolis of a half dozen decades ago. When it was suggested that New York was not such an unhealthy place for all she laughed, and said that it is how the people live, as much as where they live, that should be attended to.

REMEMBERING YESTERDAY'S FOREMORT.
Richard Mortimer, of 20 East Twenty-third street, was born in Yorkshire, England, and his family Bible there fixes his age as 94 years on December 24 last. He came to this country in 1814 to establish a trade for the woolen goods which he and his elder brothers were engaged in making at home. He has seen the city grow, but was strong enough to buy property in the city, and he has lived in it ever since. He is now in the Mortimer Building, No. 11 Wall street, brings him in a fine income. He is married, Mrs. Mortimer being born in 1800. The old gentleman came to his Wall street office each day, climbed up to his room on the fourth floor and looks after his affairs. His hearing is very much impaired, but he sees well and understands everything perfectly accurately and well. He has had five children and is not yet a great-grandfather.

ELLLEN MULCAHY, OF NO. 361 EAST EIGHTH STREET, WAS DISCOVERED UNLASH ENGAGED IN THE CELLAR SLOWING AWAY IN A BIN THE HAIR TONIC OR COIL SHE HAD JUST BOUGHT. SHE LIVED ON THE BOTTOM OF THE TONIC FOR FIVE DOORS ABOVE. SHE FIXED HER AGE AS BEING FORTY YEARS OLDER THAN NAPOLEON'S SON. THIS SHE HAD BEEN TOLD BY HER MOTHER, BUT SHE WAS NOT AWARE THAT THE KING OF ROMES WAS BORN IN 1811. THE CENSUS GAVE HER AS 90 YEARS OLD. FOR FIFTY YEARS SHE HAS LIVED IN THIS CITY, COMING HERE FROM HER NATIVE PLACE IN COUNTY DUBLIN. SHE WAS MARRIED AT THE AGE OF THIRTY-THREE, BUT "DISMEMBERED" BY HER HUSBAND'S DEATH. SHE HAS HAD SEVEN CHILDREN AND HAS BEEN A WIDOW FOR EIGHTEEN YEARS. SHE TAKES IN WASHING FOR A LIVING, AND SHE LAUGHINGLY SAYS THAT GIVING THE PORTER A BLESSING AND A GOODBYE, "I AM AS NIPPY AS A ROLLING PIN, AND BARRING THE BUZZING IN MY HEAD NOW AND THEN, I COULD LOVER A CAT."

REMEMBERING YESTERDAY'S FOREMORT.
Robert Murphy, of No. 345 West Twenty-ninth street, came from Dublin, and on May 1 next will be 94 years of age. He is a native of the city, and he has been a resident of this city since 1818, but does not recall the age he then was. He has been a carpenter by trade and has had ten children. He has been twice married, and he was a brother to the physician to the Earl of Richmond and said his secret of long life was his freedom from covetousness. "People worry themselves into a grave," he said. "I could have been one of the richest men in the city to-day had I taken the advice of friends and invested in real estate last century ago, but I preferred a quiet life to a rich one and have lived so."

RETIRED TO A CHURCH HOME.
Catharine Roe, of No. 62 Beaver street, is a native of the city, and she is over 90 years of age. She came to this city in 1800, from New Jersey, where she was born. Her recollections of matters are good, and the duel of Hamilton and Burr made a strong impression upon her. She is in service in a position to gain much inside information about that event. She is placed on the census as single, but unfortunately her name in the early leading list to resume her maiden name. She is a member of St. Philip's Colored Episcopal Church and will spend her last days as an inmate of the Farley Home on Third street.

TOO OLD TO TALK.
Elizabeth Nolan, of No. 369 East Thirty-fifth street, was too old to talk at the time she was in talking about what seemed to be the insignificant question of her age. She was born in the county

Wicklow, Ireland, and, while she has no way of fixing her age, recalls the burning of her house, and the cabin of the family Bible with a recollection of '98, especially remembering her own climbing of the ladders in use by the workmen repairing the cottages. She has had eight children, and has had fourteen or fifteen children, precisely how many she does not remember. She is a great-grand-grandmother, a 15 year old girl being the oldest to apply that title to her. She is a native of the county Wick, a tobacco smoker, and uses a brand of tobacco so strong that her great-grandson, a working man, is made sick by its use.

A PENSIONED PEDESTRIAN.
Charles Oakley, of No. 414 West Twenty-second street, was 93 years of age on April 15. This old man spent his life in the country, and he has in his possession. He was born in Westchester county, in this State, but a short distance above Harlem Bridge. He has had two wives and twelve children. He has been in the tobacco trade, though not a user of the poisonous weed himself. He belongs to the Oakley family, so well known in insurance and banking circles. He was at one time a large landed proprietor himself, owning much of the present Ninth ward, and at one period the old Fordham, now Washington, square. He is a numerous great-grandfather and is remarkably well preserved, being a great walker. But a few days since he died of a cold, and his grandsons, a lot in his teens, and walked down to Canal street, thence across to the east side of town and up home again. On the day following the boy was laid up from the cold, while the old gentleman was perambulating Central Park. He was one of the non-commissioned officers in the war of 1812 and enjoys a pension. He does not recall when he came to New York, but he does recall the years and infirmities of a friend of his, who was but 80 years of age.

FEELS SURE KNOWN TO BE YOUNGER.
Mary O'Brien, of No. 428 East Seventy-fifth street, has no record to substantiate her claim for 95 years. She was born in county Carlow, Ireland, and was married at the age of twenty, when she had eleven children, three of them being Canadian born. She is well preserved and is regarded by herself and children as being the age claimed.

MARY O'CONNOR, OF NO. 76 LEWIS STREET, COMES FROM COUNTY CORK, IRELAND, AND THE NEAREST ESTIMATE OF HER AGE IS 90 YEARS. SHE WAS BORN IN 1792, AND SHE IS A GREAT UNWIND USER, AND FOR SEVEN YEARS PAST HAS BEEN AN INFIRM, HAVING ONE SIDE OF HER BODY PARALYZED. SHE HAS HAD SIX CHILDREN, BUT LIVES NOW IN THE WARD OF THE FINEST SEWING, BY TRADE. THE OLD WOMAN SEES AND HEARS PRETTY WELL, BUT HER MENTAL FACILITIES ARE WELL NIGH GONE.

PATRICK O'NEILL, OF NO. 68 THIRD AVENUE, IS FROM COUNTY KERRY, IRELAND. HAS BEEN A BLACKSMITH BY TRADE AND SAYS HE IS OVER 90 YEARS. HE IS VERY ACTIVE AND DOES NOT FEEL HIS AGE. HE WAS BORN IN 1792, AND HE WAS MARRIED IN IRELAND AND BECAME A WIDOWER WITH SEVERAL CHILDREN. WHEN HIS THIRD DAUGHTER HAD MARRIED THE OLD GENTLEMAN, TOO, HE COULD COVER A SHORT TIME AGO. HE EIGHT YEARS PAST HAS BEEN A SECOND TIME A BENEDICT. HE DISLIKES TO SPEAK OF HIS GREAT AGE AND INSISTS THAT HE IS YOUNG ENOUGH TO LIVE FOR MANY YEARS, BUT THAT "FIGURES ON PAPER IS NO WAY TO JUDGE A MAN'S AGE."

A LONGFORD LONG LIVER.
Elizabeth Reilly is in Ward 37 of the Almshouse on Blackwell's Island. She was born in county Longford, Ireland, and was sent to the Almshouse in April, 1881. She says she was born on Christmas Eve, but says she "disremembered" the year. She has had seven children, the last one of whom she was over 60 years of age. She came out on the packet ship Kilmahilly, and the building of the ship and her travels abroad. She has a good memory for the material details, and thinks the year of her birth as of no consequence whatever. The census enumerators credited her with 94 years.

A MOTHER-IN-LAW BY LEGACY.
Elizabeth Reynolds, of No. 761 Eighth avenue, is in dispute with her children about her age. According to their investigation she will be 92 years of age on May 5th, next, while she denies that she is over 90 years. She was born in Connecticut, being the last of thirteen children, and she is thirty-five years of age. She has had three children. She has her faculties in excellent order and has a will, too, of her own. She lives now with her son-in-law by his first wife, her present attendant receiving her as a mother-in-law by legacy.

AMERICAN TO THE CORE.
Mrs. James Reynolds, of No. 240 West Tenth street, honors the memory of her dead husband by refusing to drop his Christian name. She is a thoroughgoing American lady, having been born at Sing Sing, on the Hudson, but has been a resident of this city since childhood. For forty years past she has been a widow. She was 92 years old on October 10, last, and is as active and with faculties as well preserved as many of her age. Her mother, who was a cousin of the Williams who assisted in the capture of Andre, and another ancestor of the same name appears as a subscriber to the Declaration of American Independence. Mrs. Reynolds' family has been settled in each of the wars carried on by America. She keeps thoroughly posted on the events of the day, and having an excellent memory, a stock of stories and reminiscences about old New York is apparently inexhaustible. She has had but one child herself, but there are a number of great-grandchildren born to her. She has a vivid remembrance of a trip up the creek or watercourse which ran along the present Canal street, from the North River to the stone bridge which stood at Broadway, and which permitted travelers of that great thoroughfare to cross the turbulent stream. She has a recollection of Aaron Burr, her family having lived in the estate adjoining his on Richmond Hill, overlooking the Hudson River. She came of a very long lived family and considers herself as assured of seeing a hundredth birthday.

REGULAR AT HER DEVOTIONS.
Jane Reynolds, of No. 248 East Eighth street, has no definite birthday, but by reports of neighbors and by comparison of her age with that of others well informed on the subject thinks she is now 92 years of age. She was born in county Leitrim, Ireland, and has been thirty-two years in this country. She has been very active in her day, and up to two years ago never missed a day at church in over thirty years. She has had several children; has forty-six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. With all her faculties in good order the old lady is contentedly in a comfortable armchair and says, "I am only waiting time."

A HALF CENTURY OF STREET LIFE.
William Reynolds, of No. 73 Jane street, was born at Monroe, Orange county, N. Y. His is a really good family Bible showed him to be 94 years old on December 2, last. He came to New York city in 1810, and has been a resident of this city for nearly a half a century. He is full of reminiscences of the city, his street life enabling him to watch the growth and changes in all parts of the city. He has had four children and still lives happily in the married state, his oldest daughter being 75 years old. There are seven great-grandchildren owning him as their ancestor. His constant recollection, he says, runs back to the time he was weaned, that even not taking place until he was between four and five years. He enlisted in the militia in the war of 1812, but his only military duty consisted in marching into camp, nearoney Island, and marching home again. When he reached the age of sixty or seventy years his sight, which had been very keen, failed, and he was obliged to glasses, but recently it has come back and he can now, as formerly, read the name on any steamboat at the wharf of the North River. The old gentleman is still very active, having the use of a number of his still very active, he collects the rental and superintends the repairs.

JOHN AND DIED IN NEW YORK CITY.
Mrs. M. Reilly, of No. 125 West Tenth street, was born in the city of New York and is one of the old Kickerbocker stock. In appearance she is a perfect picture of well preserved old age. She has a pair of bright eyes and a complexion without bloom, indicating the excellent health enjoyed by her. In manner she is a lady of the old school, while her manual voice was a pleasure to listen to. Her age is fixed by the family record as 91 last October, but of her precise place of birth she is not positive, her first recollection being of the family residence in Warren street. Her father had then moved a distance "out of town" into the fashionable residential district. Her mother was a Rogardus, from Dutchess county, who married M. Oliver. Of the two daughters Miss Rachel Oliver died over a year ago, aged in the nineties, while Mrs. Maria Reilly became the widow of Charles B. Reilly, who was a member of the city of New York. She has had no children, but has brought up an adopted family. She is a regular attendant each Sunday at the services of Rev. Mr. Fox's Church on West Eleventh street, and in the Presbyterian denomination she is known as a liberal and unsectarian giver. Until within a very short time she was a busy visitor to the homes of the poor, but the building of the city of New York has carried her away out of her ability to climb to it. Every faculty is preserved, and she is hearing better and her mobility was not in the least disturbed by a court decision which recently deprived her of a $100,000 stock of her income property.

A NAY EXCEPT IN YEARS.
Bridget Reilly, of No. 412 West Twenty-second street, is an old Irish widow from county Galway. She has no record of her age, but fixes it from the fact that she was 70 years old on coming to this country. That event occurred 20 or 25 years ago. She has passed into a complete senile childhood and is treated precisely like a baby. She has been the mother of eleven children. Her general health remains good.

THE SORROWS OF THE AGED HOUR.
Sarah Richards, now on Blackwell's Island, in the Almshouse, where she was admitted June 2, 1881. She is a native of Massachusetts and has never been married. Her people died away from her leaving her mother and her only sister, who was a widow, and she lived alone. She has had a single living relative. Her memory is good and she says that she has no record of the fact, however, she is in the habit of person and very retiring in her manners. She lived with friends until last spring, when she was obliged to enter one of the almshouses, and she has lived in this city. She was a member of the Mariner's Church at Catharine and Madison streets, and her pastor and the Massachusetts lady with whom she lived is over 90 years of age. She has a search of a home. She said, "I was not a Roman Catholic, so I could not enter any of their homes. The English Presbyterian and the Methodist homes refused me because I had not been a member of their churches. I was not born in Germany, but in the German Home. The Jewish homes of course I did not apply to. There was a Home for Indigent Old Ladies, and when they discovered that I had no money I was refused. The Peabody Home promised to take me when there was room. They would put my name on the list of applicants, and when a vacancy came I would be taken in. But it is not for some years yet. I do not know how many other homes were applied to in my behalf, and so at the end here am waiting to die in such a cold charity as the almshouse of a great city."

ICONOCLASTIC GRANDCHILDREN.
Marie-Isobelle, of No. 142 Percy street, celebrated her 94th birthday anniversary on March 25 last, and has fixed her age by a family record, but after a guarded existence of about seventy years she has been a resident of this city for nearly a century. The old lady was born at Kingston, in this State, and, despite many mishaps including a stroke by lightning several years ago, has lived to have a present and a great-grand-grandchildren, and says she thinks she can live out the remainder of her days and die without medical assistance.

GRIEVING FOR HER SON.
Ruth Robinson, of No. 157 West Twenty-fourth street, is a colored woman, and on April 10, 1882, she celebrated her 96th year. She was born at Stonington, Conn., but came to this city when 23 years old, and has lived here since. She has been a widow for nearly a century, and has been a resident of this city for nearly a century. She has no record of her age, but insists that she knows that she is right.

TWO OLD MEN.
Mary Ryan, of No. 238 First avenue, came from county Tipperary, Ireland. Has been twenty-five years here and has had six children. She did not know her age, and was so fearful of making an error that she refused even to name an approximate date of her birth. She recollects, however, that she was 25 years of age when she came here, and is beginning to get so feeble that her duties as a charwoman do not return her an adequate income.

AS AN INVESTIGATOR RECORDED.
Magdalena Sadezky, of No. 210 Forsyth street, is an old Bohemian woman whose age is entirely uncertain, though put down in the census at 90, and contradicted by her son at three or four months. She could see and hear well, but was somewhat troublesome to manage, especially in a crowded tenement with a family of grandchildren about her. Her daughter-in-law accordingly went to the Eastern Dispensary and a physician called to see the venerable patient. He did nothing, but a few days after a sick woman from the Department of Charities and Correction came and the old woman was hustled into it and taken away. Her son, who cannot talk English, asked whether he should accompany her, but the driver, he says, told him it was "all right." This was on September 21 last. Some days after the daughter-in-law made a visit to the charity office at Quoddy street on Third avenue, but could gain no information. She repeated her visit, taking with her a woman who was a ready interpreter, "but the man looked in a book, told me he knew nothing about it and that was all." From that day the family have not heard a word from or about the missing nonagenarian in any way. She was the mother of five children and has been eleven years in the country.

WILL LEARN ENGLISH IN TIME.
Eliza Sarver, of No. 421 Greenwald street, lives in the family of Jacob Purcell. She is German born, but moved to Holland when a child, and though she has been thirty years in America has not yet learned to talk English, though she joyfully expressed her intention to do so when she found time. She has a family record which fixes her birthday as the same on which her mother was born. This would make her over 91 years old. She is very active and takes long walks about town unattended. Her husband, who is being a great-grandfather, while the old lady is a great-grand-grandmother, for the latter is a specimen of a Dutch antique and is as merry as any of her old conspers.

SHARP SIGHT.
Sarah B. Saunders, of No. 239 West Twenty-ninth street, is a multi-to woman, and was found bedridden in bed. She was born in Folsom, Pa., and was always a weakly child, and at no time of her life has enjoyed robust health. She was looking forward to July 26 next, when she will reach her 99th birthday. She has no record to refer to fix her age, but is a very intelligent woman, and says she recalls the age as given her by her mother. Out of her family of thirteen children—twelve of them boys—there are but two living. About nine years ago a severe fall compelled the use of a cane, and the falling of the eyesight was another infirmity.

A SHARP SIGHT.
Isaac Sherick, of No. 505 Eighth avenue, was born at Posen, and fixes his birth by the Jewish calendar as on the 1st day of Kivka. He has been father to seven children and has a large company of great-grandchildren. For thirty-six years he has been in this country, and, while undecided about his age, fixes it at 97 or 98 years. He recalls the Napoleonic wars, and his long life has given him a stock of reminiscences which makes him an agreeable story telling companion. Years ago he was a great mull back, but stopped when he was about 70 years of age. He is a fine sample of old age, his skin being as clear as alabaster and without spot or blemish. He has been a trader all his life and his boast is that he has never lost a kreutzer or a cent by wrong change.

AS LIVELY AS A CRICKET.
Florence Schuman, of No. 34 West Thirty-first street, was described by her daughter as being "as lively as a cricket." She was certainly enjoying herself very actively with the exercises of the sixteenth birthday of her daughter. The old lady has no accurate record of her birthday, but fixed her age at about 92. She came to this country when 18, and has had eleven children, of whom five are still living. The old lady is a natural mathematician, and the most complicated problems of interest and percentage she works out in her mind without the aid of paper or pencil. She was married at the age of 19 or 20 years and comes of long lived stock, her immediate ancestry having the ages of 120 and 111 inscribed upon their tomb.

STILL ON THE ROAD.
Joseph Schull, of No. 89 Pitt street, was an old German who had been a pedler for years, and at the time of the reporter's visit was out on a tramp after trade. He has been for thirty-four years in the country and has had several children. He fixes his age at 92, but has no data or records to show for his belief. He is still married, and declared that he would not begin to think himself old enough to be talked about so long as he could continue at business.

WALKING WITH THE REPORTER.
Bertha Seimon, of No. 23 Stanton street, is an old married lady from Hesse-Darmstadt. She has been in America for twenty-nine years, and a young grandson declared with some pride that she had just been celebrating her 94th birthday. The old lady fixed her age by the Jewish holidays to come off in October next, and said that at that time she would be 93 years old. The fact of her birth, &c., had been recorded in an old parchment roll preserved in the family
